SAY COMPANIES WILL NOT PAY

Davis Brothers File Damage Suits Against Insurance Associations Doing Business Here.

RESULT OF FIRE ON JUNE 4

Claim That Defendants Have Not Kept Contract and Have Refused to Pay.

John S. Davis and Robert S. Davis, doing business under the firm name of Davis Brothers, brought suit in the circuit court today against three insurance companies doing business in this city for the sum of eighteen hundred dollars. The suit comes as the result of the lively men filing a claim for damages after the disastrous fire, which they had June the fourth, last. The companies against whom the suits were filed are, Camden Fire Insurance Association of Camden, New Jersey; The Glens Falls Insurance Company of Glens Falls, New York and The Dubuque Fire Marine Insurance Company of Dubuque, Iowa.

The lively men state in the complaint that they had a fire the fourth of last June and that they suffered a heavy loss, estimated at about thirty-three hundred dollars. The complaints against all of the three companies are exactly alike. Davis brothers aver that they had a policy for five hundred dollars with each of the companies against whom they have filed suit. They claim that the insurance covered all of the stable equipment, including horses, vehicles and feed for the horses. They state in the complaint that they valued the equipment which was destroyed at $3,310.

The lively men further declare that the policies provided that the loss would be made right if the claim was filed within sixty days after the fire; that it would be made right after the company had ascertained, estimated and had obtained satisfactory proof that the fire really occurred.

Davis Brothers aver in the complaint that they performed all conditions which were asked in the policy, in regard to filing a claim with the company within the sixty days time as required. They state that they gave immediate notice of the full loss under oath and that the companies have so far failed to keep their part of the contract. They claim that the defendants have actually refused to pay and will not take any action in the matter whatever. The lively firm asks for five hundred dollars damages and one hundred dollars to pay the costs of the case and for all other proper relief.

HURLED FROM MOTOR CAR

Men Slightly Injured in Accident on L. E. & W. Railroad.

Michael O'Neil, who runs a motor car on this division of the L. E. & W. and three other men, James Goodbar, Frank Moore and Amos Sparks, met with a serious accident yesterday when they ran over a dog with the motor car and were all thrown into the ditch. O'Neil suffered a badly mangled foot and is now confined to his home, while the other men escaped with a few minor bruises. The dog was mangled so that it was necessary to kill it.

All of the county offices in the court house will be closed tomorrow and Friday afternoon on account of the fair. They were closed this afternoon too.

NEW CASTLE JOINS BUNCH

Police Stopped Exhibition of Fight Pictures There Last Night.

New Castle last evening joined the other municipalities of the country which stand for morality, when the police, at the direction of Chief Burr, stopped an exhibition of fight pictures depicting the scenes of the recent Johnson-Jeffries battle for the heavy-weight championship. Following the stopping of the pictures, C. C. Barley proprietor of the Star theater, where the exhibition was being conducted, was arrested and later released on bond.

AGED FORMER RESIDENTS DIE

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Kenton, Who Lived Here Before Civil War, Expire in Illinois.

SURVIVED BY FOUR CHILDREN

Word has been received here of the recent deaths of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Kenton, former residents of Rush county, at their home in Decatur, Ill. Mrs. Kenton succumbed on the eighteenth of last July, and her husband expired about one month later, August 16. Mr. and Mrs. Kenton lived here before the civil war and will be remembered by many of the older residents of the county. Mr. Kenton served in the 22d Ind. battery all during the civil war. His wife was a member of the Alexander family here. They were both buried side by side in the cemetery at Decatur, Ill.

After leaving here shortly after the war, Mr. and Mrs. Kenton lived for a time in Darnard, Kansas, where most of their children were educated. They moved to Indianapolis, where they resided for a time, and later moved to Decatur, Ill., where they spent the remainder of their life. They are survived by four children, three sons and one daughter: Mrs. H. R. McCune of Decatur, Ill.; William T. Kenton of Redlands, Cal.; Omer W. Kenton of St. Louis, Mo.; and Dr. J. R. Kenton of Raymond, Ill.

AILEEN WILSON IS STILL IN THE GAME

Rush County Mare Won Pacing Division of $5,000 American Derby at Readville, Mass.

HAD A VERY BIG HANDICAP

If anyone be accused of saying that Aileen Wilson, the well known Rush county mare, could not "come back," he should at once be relegated to the Ananias club, because the little black mare showed that she was not down and out yesterday, when she easily captured the pacing division of the American Derby at the Readville, Mass., track. The purse was five thousand dollars. Aileen Wilson had a greater handicap than any of the four horses who finished in the first four positions, but still she was able to pass all of them. She traveled over 6,150 feet, which was a hundred foot greater handicap than any other horse had. She made the distance in 2:27 1/4, which would average about 2:03 for a mile. Aileen Wilson was born and raised in this county and for a long time in the Dick Wilson stable. She was trained in her early days by Clell Maple.

TOMORROW TO BE THE BIG DAY

Fair Association is Expecting Largest Crowd in History of Annual Event Thursday.

"THRILLERS" ON THE PROGRAM

Harrie Jones Will Drive Alecyfras, 2:04 1/2, to Lower Track Record—Four Races Scheduled.

Thursday, the big day of the Rush county fair, when more people attend than any other two days of the fair, will be here tomorrow morning at early dawn and will last until the last tired and weary amusement seeker comes in from the grounds. Tomorrow offers many "thrillers" as are always to be found on the big day of the annual exhibition. Harrie Jones, the local reinsman, will drive Alecyfras, the roan pacing mare by Aleryon, to beat the track record. The balloon ascensions will take place in the late afternoon and all of the shows on the grounds will offer their best programs. The show ring promises to be filled with the best stock then and all of the halls will have on their gala attire.

The special attraction on the race track tomorrow is expected to be one of the best crowd getters. Alecyfras already has a record of 2:04 1/2 in a race and there seems to be no doubt but what she can reduce the time of the best mile which was ever made on the local course. She now holds the world's record for mares this year and has been performing creditably all over the western circuit this season. She has one first to her credit for this season and has finished in the money in nearly every race, although she has not been started many times. The local horseman is expected to send her the best mile she can step and it is fully expected that she will reduce the local record to some extent.

A good Wednesday crowd was in attendance at the fair this afternoon. The most enjoyed attraction was the gentleman's road trot, in which only local men and horses took part. The rules of the race provided that no horse, which has ever been trained or which was ever driven in a race, could be entered. The 2:30 trot and the 2:30 pace were numbers on the race program this afternoon. They were warmly contested and the deciding heats were not raced until a late hour.

Tomorrow will offer the best race program of the week when four races will take place. There are five entries in the 2:16 pace, eight in the 2:17 trot, four in the three-year-old pace and eight in the gentleman's road pace. It is a similar race to the one held today and promises to let off much pent up speed which the local horse fanciers have been trying to bring out for the last few weeks. Many local horsemen will have entries in the races, including Fred Dagler, Clell Maple, Bruce Graham, Clyde Nebro, Joe Christman and Horrie Brooks, who formerly lived here, but who is now training in Alliance, Neb.

Miss Mae Simpson, who drives her own entries in the races will be an attraction on the race program tomorrow and Friday. She will drive Black Lad in the 2:16 pace tomorrow and the same horse in the 2:25 pace the next day. Miss Simpson planned to visit the fair last year, but was unable to come at the last minute.

FORMER LOCAL MAN IN FIGHT

William Wilhelm in Indianapolis Hospital as Result of Cutting Affray on Court House Lawn.

WOMAN WAS ALSO ARRESTED

Young Man Must Answer to Charge of Assault and Battery With Intent to Kill.

Willie Wilhelm, formerly of this city, giving his home as Danville, Ind., was arrested in Indianapolis Monday night as a result of a cutting affray on the court house lawn, when he and a soldier mixed. Wilhelm is in the City Dispensary with a badly cut leg and will also have to answer a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. The story of the fight is told as follows in the Indianapolis Star:

Two men were stabbed in a fight on the State House lawn near Market street, last night and were arrested later, together with a woman who was a companion of one of the men. To Wheelmen Simon and Glenn they gave their names as William Wilhelm, Danville, Ind.; Jeanette Warner, Plainfield, and James H. Stewart, Company I, Fort Benjamin Harrison.

The police say the fight started when one made a remark as the soldier passed. Both men denied they were the cause of the trouble. Stewart is charged with assault and battery, and Wilhelm with assault and battery with intent to kill. The woman was charged first with loitering and was locked up later charged with drunkenness.

Wilhelm went to the City Dispensary for surgical treatment and Stewart to a physician. The officers arrested Stewart as he was waiting to board a Fort Benjamin Harrison car. Stewart was cut in the back, several stitches being required to close the wound. Wilhelm suffered a painful cut on his leg.

The prisoners gave their names at the Central Police station as Harry Smith, salesman, Elwood, Ind., and Jeanette Jones, St. Louis. Stewart gave the same name he gave the wheelman. Neither one of the men is seriously injured.

ARE PREPARING FOR CARNIVAL

Newton, Jarvis and Robertson Are Working Daily on Their Vaudeville "Stunt."

OTHER THINGS IN READINESS

The final preparations are being completed for the Catholic carnival, which will be held next week at the church park at the corner of Fifth and Perkins streets. Newton, Jarvis and Robertson, who are going to give a vaudeville "stunt" daily, are practicing with regularity and the general public is going to find a great surprise in the work of the local amateurs. Grand Carr will move his moving picture machine to the grounds on Monday. The refreshment stands are being constructed this week, and the management expects the event to move off without any irregularities.

COMMISSIONER DIES.

County Commissioner Daniel Flant, 63 years old, is dead at his home in Connorsville from lockjaw as the result of a wound inflicted in his right hand by a splinter a week ago.

AFTER 35 YEARS ABSENCE

Four Cousins From All Over County Meet Here.

Augusta Glass and Lottie Trees of Indianapolis and their cousin, Henry C. Macy of Whittier, Cal., spent last Monday at the beautiful country home of O. C. Macy over in Rush county, says the Greenfield Reporter. It was a day to be remembered, as it had been thirty-five years since the four cousins had met. Henry Macy owns an English walnut farm near Whittier and last year three thousand dollars worth of walnuts was sold from his land.

WIND WAGON GOES THROUGH FENCE

Driver of Freak Car in Accident on Way Here to Give Exhibition at Fair.

GETS BAD JOLT IN THE FALL

Some of the thrills of the Overland Wind Wagon performances were not witnessed by the crowd at the fair grounds today as the pilots were all alone on the road ten miles out of the city when it went through a fence.

Carl Baumhofer was driving a test car to which was tied the Wind Wagon. Another employe of the Overland company was riding in the Wind Wagon, guiding it, and when Baumhofer began to "beat it" on a bend in the road it "cracked the whip" and threw the freak car through a rail fence. Nothing serious resulted and aside from being covered with dust and getting a good jolt the drivers were not injured.

The Wind Wagon could not be driven overland because there are only three inches clearance between the wooden propeller and the road.

OLDEST MAN EVER IN COURT HOUSE

J. D. Lowden of Indianapolis Made That Honor For Himself Today—Once Lived in This County.

WAS BORN IN SEPTEMBER, 1818

J. D. Lowden of Indianapolis, made for himself today the honor of being the oldest man that ever was in the present court house. Mr. Lowden is here as the guest of his great nephew, Clata Bebout, who is the present sheriff of the county, and he brought his great uncle over to his office. Mr. Lowden was born in Bourbon county, Kentucky, September 28, 1818. In company with his parents he moved to this county in 1824, where he resided until 1857. In that year he went to Marion county and purchased a quarter of a section of land and has lived to see it become the finest residence portion of the Capital city. The venerable gentleman is an exceedingly interesting talker and is enjoying perfect health.

MINISTER LEAVES.

The Rev. George L. Mann has closed his work in the Christian Union churches at Ray's Crossing, Homer and Brownsville, after having had charge of the circuit for several years. September 1 he will take up his work at Newark, Ohio.

Sam Shuck has accepted a position at Demmer's cigar store.

GREAT PROGRESS IS MADE DAILY

Excavation For Paving Has Been Made to Sixth Street on Main—Brick Unloaded to Fifth.

MEN WILL BE ADDED TO FORCE

Concrete Base Has Been Begun at Northern Extremity of Road.

Work toward the completion of the brick roads and streets in this township is being carried forward day by day at a tremendous rate of speed. Before another week has passed the first brick will have been set in its position and the dream of the petitioners will have been begun to be realized in the true sense—brick streets. Six weeks ago a force of twenty men begun to carry out the contract of the Adams Constructing Co., of Zanesville, but the number has been increased daily until it now reaches a total of sixty-five. The business manager of the construction stated yesterday afternoon that more men would be put on the work every week from now on until its completion, on account of the fact that the contract for the bonds had been completely closed, thus relieving the minutest doubt as to the forthcoming of funds.

Partial excavation has been made almost to Sixth street on Main and before the week has passed that cross street will have been reached. The concrete base has been begun being laid at the northern extremity of the highway and by tonight 500 feet will have been completed. Several feet of this base has to be down before the laying of brick can be begun, because of the reason that brick can be put down so much more rapid than can the innermost concrete base.

Brick have been placed along the side of Main street as far down toward the business district as Fifth street. The invoices of the construction company show up to date 422,500 brick have been placed along beside the curb on both sides of the thoroughfare, which makes a total of 54,080,000 cubic inches of baked clay that have been unloaded along Main street.

WILL FILL THE BANK VACANCY

Herbert Flint Accepts the Position Made Vacant by the Resignation of Jesse Pugh.

WILL BEGIN WORK OCTOBER 1

Herbert Flint has resigned his position at Bliss & Cowing's shoe store to accept the position made vacant by the resignation of Jesse Pugh at the Rush County National bank. Mr. Flint came to this city from Letts Corner in 1900 and accepted a position at the Hackman store. When Robert Ray resigned his position as manager of Bliss & Cowing's shoe department, Mr. Flint accepted it, and has been with them since that time. His resignation takes effect on October first, at which time he will go into the bank. Mr. Pugh immediately after his relief will commence to fill engagements that he has on the lyceum platform throughout the coming season.

Omer Dye and William Pea are assisting the local police through the fair.

EDITORS MISLED BY WILY LAWYER

Pure Food Law Violators Use
Taggart Bureau.

VICIOTS ATTACK ON OFFICER

Counsel For Interests Which Seek to Break Down Pure Food Laws Works
Partisan Bureau and Impose on Honest Papers of State—Bureau Writer
Later Lands on Law's Side of Pure
Food Cases.

In a letter sent out to Democratic papers the other day, the Democratic publicity bureau attacked Attorney General Bingham viciously for traveling in search of testimony, depositions, witnesses and material with which to make the state's cases against pure food law violators.

In effect the Democratic bureau, apparently at the suggestion of the Democratic governor, but really in response to arguments from cunning counsel for the pure food law violators, declared against any effort by the state of Indiana to defend its position or to uphold the important laws against food frauds and adulterants.

Attorneys for the pure food law violators, having failed to induce any reputable newspaper in Indianapolis or elsewhere to use their underhanded and crooked attacks on the attorney general's office, rightly figured that the Democratic press bureau, in its blind partisanship, and in its Taggart anti-party against the Republican attorney general, would snap at the tainted "dope."

The bureau accepted the bait and swallowed the adulterated stuff greedily, and used all the Democratic editors it could influence, in furthering the evil designs of the poisoners who sell rotten foods to the public. The trick worked.

A few days later, when the Republican attorney general of Indiana met obstacles interposed by tricky lawyers at Washington, and was forced to make a fight in court for testimony needed to complete Indiana's case, the Democratic press bureau sent out a story attacking some supposed Washington officers who were "trying to hamper the attorney general" and block the enforcement of the pure food laws.

Now the Democratic press bureau attacked the Republican attorney general of Indiana because he was a Republican, and because Thomas Taggart does not love him personally, since the Casino suits. And the same bureau turned about within a week and attacked someone else at Washington on the ground that the same attorney general was being "hampered."

In one letter the Democratic bureau lampooned the attorney general for going after evidence to enforce the pure food laws. In its next letter it lambasted men who apparently were trying to keep that evidence from the attorney general. What is the public to believe?

SERVICE TO PARTY

Senator Beveridge Long Has Been Great Help to Republican Cause.

Senator Beveridge for years has been one of the strong orators of Republicanism in state and nation. His speaking tours for the national Republican committee, and his efforts every campaign on behalf of the Indiana state and congressional tickets have been a source of help to the Republican cause and to the cause of the people generally. Not only has Senator Beveridge proved to be a vote-getter, but he has time and again demonstrated loyalty, zeal and effectiveness as a Republican campaigner. His speeches have been consistent in voicing the militant, progressive doctrine of the Republican party of Lincoln, Harrison, Fairbanks and Roosevelt.

The Fort Wayne News' Indianapolis correspondent quotes what Senator Beveridge said in 1908 in support of the Republican state ticket, and especially in urging the election of James E. Watson for governor of Indiana. Senator Beveridge said, at Richmond: "Every place that I have spoken I have asked the people to make the popular majority of James E. Watson for governor equal to that of W. H. Taft for president. I earnestly hope that every Republican—yes, and every Democrat who values the welfare of the state—will not only cast his ballot for Mr. Watson, but that from now until election day he will work for him with might and main."

At Terre Haute Senator Beveridge said, on this same line:

"Our candidate, James E. Watson, has had twelve years' experience in congress. He has risen by force of native qualities to be whip of the house. When we remember that the house has nearly 400 members, of whom nearly 300 are Republicans, we can see how great a distinction that is."

"He is able, he is highly trained, and he is one of the most brilliant orators that Indiana has ever produced. The Republicans of Indiana have made him our standard-bearer. Let us all rally, and by an overwhelming majority elect as the next governor of Indiana that eloquent man and skilled legislator, James E. Watson."

POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS

So far as known the date for Mr. Bryan's Indiana speech has not been announced. Mysterious delay somewhere. Let's have the Bryan date.

Joseph Folk was right when he told Indiana Democrats that their gravest danger lay in the drift from the Democratic party as now controlled, into the Republican party.

What did Colonel Bryan say to Colonel Watterson about "Harmon and Harmony"? The two men met at Evansville, Ind. Will the Democratic publicity bureau tell an anxious public what Colonel Bryan said to Colonel Watterson?

R. K. Bedgood, of Lafayette, Republican candidate for joint representative in Tippecanoe and Montgomery counties, is a strong friend of Senator Beveridge. He says he finds the people are for Senator Beveridge, and are determined that he shall be returned to Washington.

Samuel Gompers is a pretty plain talker. He says: "If I come to Indiana to speak in this campaign, it will not be under the auspices of any political party." The Democratic manager who announced Mr. Gompers' name as one of the party's stellar orators, is still rubbing the bump where Mr. Gompers' wallop landed.

Lew Ellingham, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, says that if labor men continue their fight against him, he will "fight back." It is pretty well understood that labor men will carry their campaign against all their enemies right up to the polls and there give it all the force they are able to give it. Mr. Ellingham's boast of being ready to "fight back" is not expected to intimidate the men who are on his political trail at this time.

Democratic managers of the Parker fiasco campaign of 1904 abused Theodore Roosevelt and made his personality the issue. Their folly was pretty well proved by the 2,600,000 plurality that rolled up for Teddy. It is unbelievable that these same Parker Democrats would repeat in 1910 the unutterable folly of 1904. Yet we have Stokes Jackson, Democratic state chairman, attacking Roosevelt on the assumption that someone, somewhere, has "discredited" the former president. Mr. Jackson apparently does not recall the 94,000 plurality Indiana gave to Rooseveltism. Mr. Jackson seemingly ignores the fact that Rooseveltism is a large issue of the year in Indiana.

The sudden arrival of Thomas Taggart in Indianapolis Thursday was due to the fact that the educational system of Indiana demanded his presence. Five hundred thousand school children and their pleading parents, with an army of educators, were holding out their hands to Mr. Taggart, appealing to him for help. So Mr. Taggart came back to Indiana to select for the children, their parents and for the educators of Indiana a candidate for superintendent of public instruction to fill a vacancy on the Democratic ticket. It is painful to think what might have happened to the schools of Indiana if Mr. Taggart had remained in the east instead of hurrying back to do his duty as mentor of the state's great educational system.

EXCHANGE VALUES

OF 1910 AND 1896.

The average prices of the principal farm products in March, 1896, as shown by the bulletins of the United States Bureau of Labor, reveal in a striking manner the prosperity of the farmer.

The real value of any article is its exchange value. The real worth of farm products is measured by comparison with the value of articles which the farmer wants to purchase.

Figuring on the general wholesale price of articles, ten bushels of corn in 1896 would buy 21 pounds of Rio coffee, in 1910, 70 pounds; ten bushels of corn equal in value 53 gallons of refined petroleum in March, 1910; 23 gallons in March, 1896; ten bushels of corn equal in value 1,040 brick in March, 1910, and 519 in March, 1896; ten bushels of corn equal in value 337 pounds of wire nails in March, 1910, and 95 pounds in March, 1896; ten bushels of corn equal in value 131 pounds of sugar in March, 1910, and 59 pounds in March, 1896, etc.

A 300-pound hog, when valued in merchandise at the wholesale rate, equaled 36 barrels of salt in March, 1910, and 16 barrels in March, 1896.

Twenty pounds of butter showed values as follows when measured in the wholesale price of staple articles: Coffee, No. 7 Rio, in March, 1910, 70 pounds; in March, 1896, 29 pounds; granulated sugar, 130 pounds in March, 1910, as compared with 82 pounds in 1896, etc.

A case of eggs which would have bought 72 yards of Amoskeag gingham in March, 1896, would have bought 110 yards of the same material in March of this year.

REPUBLICANS GET SHARE OF CREDIT

Lighting Contract Is Two Thirds Republican.

WHEELER IS REAL REFORMER

Effort of Democrats to Show Governor Marshall as Economy Booster Fails to Tell Truth as to Part Taken by Majority—Republicans Took Initiative for Economy and Brought About Desirable Result.

The public buildings and grounds commission, two Republicans and one Democrat, made a contract for lighting the statehouse some time ago, and the Democratic publicity bureau is pointing out the fact that the new lighting contract is advantageous to the state and to the people.

It is true that the state now is paying 3½ cents per 1,000 kilowatts for service which, before competition entered the bidding field, cost 10 cents per 1,000 watts. It is true that the new contract is advantageous to the state. It is true that the state of Indiana, through its public buildings and grounds commission, took the earliest possible advantage of competition in the lighting business.

No special credit is to be given to any public officer in the matter, unless it be accorded to Charles J. Wheeler, the Republican custodian of the statehouse. Mr. Wheeler found the state was paying 10 cents per 1,000 watts to a lighting company which was the only bidder, and which had a monopoly. He induced that company to cut its rate to 5 cents per 1,000 watts, through his own urgent efforts. Later, when a new company made a bid, the price was cut to 3½ cents.

Mr. Wheeler was the original mover. Fred A. Sims, secretary of state, and John C. Billheimer, auditor of state, both Republicans, took the matter up, informed Governor Marshall of the situation, and the Democratic governor readily joined them in obtaining price reductions through new competition.

Governor Marshall does not claim more than one-third the credit for this sensible and opportune achievement. He is entitled to that.

REPUBLICAN SHOTS

Albert Lowry is to head Republican labor bureau.

Colonel W. T. Durbin will give his time after Oct. 1 to Republican organization work.

Samuel Gompers commends Senator Beveridge in a newspaper statement. Colonel Roosevelt comes out strongly for a tariff commission.

President Taft writes letter urging further revision of the tariff on lines suggested by tariff board.

Roosevelt meeting in Indiana to be held at University Square, Indianapolis, Oct. 13, in the afternoon.

W. E. Springer opens Republican speakers' bureau.

James R. Garfield announces he will speak in Indiana.

Organization work in full blast.

Sixty-day poll preparations on.

Crumpacker for speaker takes well with voters.

Republican newspapers expose Democratic tariff lies.

Democratic congressmen caught by veterans in pension trickery.

Beveridge speaking campaign to begin about Sept. 20.

WITH THE DEMOCRATS

Samuel Gompers, labor leader, turns down Indiana Democratic bosses.

Taggart forced to invite Bryan to speak in Indiana. No date set.

Sterling R. Holt, Democrat, says Bryan will do more harm than good.

Dr. R. J. Alecy, Democratic candidate for superintendent of public instruction, gets out of the race, weakening the ticket.

Tom Taggart comes to Indiana from Hyannisport, Mass., to select a Democratic candidate for superintendent of public instruction.

George H. Tapy, Governor Marshall's choice for Dr. Alecy's place, is ignored by Taggart.

Governor Marshall's request for conference on Alecy matter is scorned.

Charley Greathouse picked by Taggart for superintendent of public instruction.

Lew Ellingham, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, says he will "fight back" at 75,000 labor men who are against him.

Joe Folk of Missouri warns Indiana Democrats that the drift is to the Republican party in Indiana. Bryan also sounds same warning.

Stokes Jackson, Democratic state chairman, attacks Colonel Roosevelt.

James L. Keach, Democrat, rival of Taggart, in open revolt against the Democratic demand for return to era of low prices.

W. J. Bryan meets Henry Watterson at Evansville and tells Watterson he would cut off an arm before he would support Harmon for president.

Sterling R. Holt declares for Harmon or Gaynor for president.

R. W. Miers is out for Champ Clark for president.

Democratic bureau says Tom Taggart can be trusted to make a fair "gerrymander" of Indiana.

John W. Kern, "he lay low."

UNCLE SAM TOOK A HAND IN THIS

Co-Operative United Exchange
Put Under the Ban.

A "GET-RICH-QUICK" CONCERN

$20,000,000 Corporation Doing Business in Chicago Was Regarded by the Federal Authorities as Being Too Much of a J. Rufus Wallingford Concern to Be Strictly Honest, and Arrest of Principals Was Ordered.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—The "gas bag" of the Co-Operative United Exchange, a $20,000,000 "get-rich-quick" corporation organized last April under the laws of Arizona, was punctured with the arrest of William H. Holcomb, vice president and general counsel, by United States postoffice inspectors.

Holcomb, who is regarded by the federal officers as the dupe for a coterie of the J. Rufus Wallingford type of high-finance swindlers, is charged with using the mails for fraudulent purposes. Warrants for the arrest of the acknowledged principals have been issued and arrests are expected in various parts of the United States today. A half hour after the apprehension of Holcomb the main offices of the concern, Room 420, 189 Lasalle street, were raided and a wagon load of literature confiscated.

The alleged purpose of the concern was to investigate corporations, underwrite bond issues, to sell bond issues, and to act as a general financial information bureau. According to the postoffice officers its purpose was to sell its own $20,000,000 worth of bonds, bonds in the California Sanitarium and Farm company, another alleged "wild cat" scheme, and to bond its own employees at $5 a head in the Metropolitan Deposit and Trust company, another Arizona concern organized by the promoters of the $20,000,000 parent company. The extent of the concern's activities are being held a secret by the officials. Several hundred state managers, local agents and representatives of the concern are said to be on the books. Each of them is declared to have been compelled to pay from $55 to $100 into the company's coffers. Two methods by which the corporation is said to have swindled its own employees are as follows:

Each employee who held a position lower than state manager was compelled to buy $50 worth of stock in the company.

Each minor employee was compelled to be bonded for $500 in the association concern, the Metropolitan Deposit and Trust company. For this bond they paid $5 cash.

The federal officers charge that the contracts which the agents entered into contained so many "jokers" that it would be impossible for the employees to meet their requirements. As a result an endless chain of "fire and hire" would result in $55 clean money going into the company's treasury with each employment.

SHERMAN AND WATSON TOURING IN MISSOURI

They Are Well Received in the Mining District.

Joplin, Mo., Aug. 31.—Vice President Sherman was welcomed here by a throng that packed the depot platform. An auto tour of the Joplin zinc and lead district followed. Mr. Sherman visiting Webb City, Cartersville, Prosperity and Carthage. Mr. Sherman made his first political speech of the day at the big shaft of the American Zinc, Lead and Smelting company's plant at Prosperity. He spoke to about 3,000 miners and top men, who cheered his references to the zinc tariff. "I am a partisan," he said, "because I think the principles of my party will give the greatest prosperity to my country. Perhaps some misguided or designing persons have told you that you have your tariff on zinc and you don't need to keep a Republican congress. Don't you believe it."

Sherman spoke at the theater in Joplin to a crowd that overflowed into the street. Prolonged cheers greeted him. He kept the great crowd together despite the heat. He defended the protective tariff and said that the people do not propose to turn over any revision of the tariff to its enemies.

He read extracts from the speeches of Senator Cummins of Iowa, stating that he also took this position. Sherman was followed by James E. Watson of Indiana, former whip of the house, who kept the crowd in continual applause by his happy thrusts and eloquence.

Party men here think that the tour of the Sherman party has done great good. The enthusiasm, attendance and interest shown were all up to the highest pitch.

Insurgent Resolutions.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 31.—The Republican party council was overwhelmingly insurgent and the band wagon was run over Senator Curtis and others who sought to secure an unqualified endorsement of President Taft. The only endorsement the president received was an assurance that the Kansas Republicans would commend only such acts as met with the approval of the Kansas insurgents.

Dynamiters Still at Work.

Columbus, O., Aug. 31.—A Mt. Vernon avenue car was dynamited at Sandusky and Broad streets at 7:30 last night. Severe injuries were sustained by a woman passenger and by a pedestrian on the sidewalk. The crew of the car escaped without hurts.

Earthquake in New Hampshire.

Newport, N. H., Aug. 31.—An earthquake caused considerable excitement in this section of New Hampshire, but did no damage. In this town residents felt a distinct trembling of the earth and dishes rattled on the shelves of houses.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

It has been decided that Mr. Roosevelt's name shall be presented to the coming New York state convention as a candidate for temporary chairman.

Samuel J. Hirsch of the firm of Hirsch & Wickwire, clothing makers, Chicago, committed suicide in his room at the Knickerbocker hotel, New York, by cutting his throat with a razor.

Miss Ethel May Davis, a Chicago young woman returning from Europe on the Kaiser Wilhelm II., says she was robbed of $3,340 worth of jewelry and money while the ship was on the high seas.

The members of the Princeton Alumni association in New Jersey, numbering about 1,400, have been appealed to to lend their influence toward bringing about the nomination of President Woodrow Wilson as the Democratic candidate for governor of that state.

Frank Couden, cashier in the office of the United States surveyor of customs in Cincinnati, has been indefinitely suspended for taking a vacation without permission. Couden's vacation consisted in a trip to the Republican state convention at Columbus.

MILWAUKEE STIRRED BY SEIDEL'S ACTION

Socialist Mayor Declines to Do
Honor to Roosevelt.

Milwaukee, Aug. 31.—Mayor Seidel's refusal to serve on the reception committee for Colonel Roosevelt when the former president is to be the guest of the City Press club in Milwaukee, Sept. 7, has caused much criticism. It is urged the mayor should not have allowed his personal likes and dislikes to dictate his actions on an occasion when one of the world's greatest men is visiting Milwaukee, particularly when the colonel's coming is divested of any political meaning.

"The stand taken by Mayor Seidel was ill advised," said Wallace M. Bell, president of the chamber of commerce. "It shows a more narrow disposition on the part of the mayor than I had given him credit for. This seems to be the general opinion on 'change.' Everyone to whom I have talked says that the mayor's attitude is ill advised."

WARNER FOR CONGRESS

Republicans in Eighth Indiana District
Name Muncie Lawyer.

Bluffton, Ind., Aug. 31.—Rollin Warner, a Muncie lawyer, was nominated for representative to congress by the Republicans of the Eighth district. The name of only one other aspirant for the honor was presented, that of I. P. Watts of Winchester, but the contest was settled before the first roll call of counties had been finished. The resolutions endorsed Senator Beveridge and the state ticket, declared confidence in President Taft, reaffirmed "unflinching allegiance to the principle of protection," and favored the creation of a tariff commission.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 31.—C. P. Welsh, discharged special agent of the Great Northern Railway company, entered the office of Chief Special Agent A. G. Ray and fired five shots at the latter, and missed him each time. Ray pulled his gun and shot Welsh dead. Welsh had been discharged by Ray about two months ago for shooting a man at Duluth.

PROFIT BY OTHERS' EXPERIENCE

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

MISS E. A. ROSS,

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

Today Soda Fountain
Is a Work of Art

Time was, and not many summers ago, when the soda fountain was an insignificant affair. A small upright marble cabinet, which held a few syrups, a metal nozzle at the top that supplied the carbonated water that stirred up the syrups and an ice-box on the side, composed the fountain. Strawberry, orange, lemon, chocolate, vanilla and a few other flavors comprised the repertoire of beverages dispensed by the proprietor or the boy who swept up the drug store floor. The mint did not have to work overtime to turn out the nickels and dimes that were spent on it.

But today the soda-fountain is a work of art in marble and plate-glass. Some fountains, if taken outside their regular habitat, would adorn our most beautiful parks. Their marble counters cost small fortunes in themselves. The glass plates that glitter behind them are insured for hundreds of dollars. The bronze and marble statues that crown these masterpieces of a new and rapidly growing business could find a place in some art galleries. The making of these sizzling, overflowing temples that quench the thirst of ninety million Americans is done by expert marble cutters and polishers and experts in metal and glass. The preparing of formulas for the beverages taxes the skill of chemists and extract makers.

The soda-fountain has, indeed, become the national thirst-quencher. From the time when the first robin chirps until the fall of the first flake of snow, the American people throng eagerly around it. If the Mississippi river were to go dry suddenly on the first of May and all the soda-fountains in the United States were turned into it, many boats could still navigate in its fruit-flavored waters. Should all the fountains in the land shut down for a single day during a hot spell in June or July, a groan of agony would go up from parched America.

The half dozen or more flavors that were first known to the druggist and consumer have been multiplied by a hundred. Every drink that can appease the palate is served with surprising neatness and quickness. The expert soda dispenser can pass out an "angel wing," "Black Hawk sundae," a "Calcutta lemonade," or a "blood-orange frappe" as rapidly as he can a glass of plain soda. To date standard formulas, prepared and approved by the scientific men in the business, number over a thousand. Every fruit grown is used in the manufacture of drinks, "sundae," and other concoctions that bring joy to the thirsty soul.

The literary schedules of the beverages rival the hotel menus. The names of drinks and dishes are printed and stenciled on cards and displayed in tempting array. Some of the larger fountains change their "leaders" every day; and the man who wants something more than plain soda can give a different order every time and then not begin to exhaust the list.

Mere soda-water itself has been supplanted largely by offerings more substantial. Eggs by thousands are used, and some folks think their drink is not complete without the yolk of an egg in it. Ice cream enough is sold to supply all the restaurants in the United States. Cantaloupes are kept on ice and sliced up and served with cream on them.

With all its exterior beauty and interior sweetness, the soda-fountain has attracted such a patronage that in many places it is forced to remain open all the year. In some of the department stores December is the best month. Intoxicants are never sold at reputable fountains. The "cocktail" sometimes seen on the display cards is altogether different from the cocktail served over the bar, and would be scorned by its harder namesake. The soda-fountain is thus a genuine American institution whose democracy is a thing beautiful to behold.

Emperor William is a man of stubborn opinions. He still sticks to the divine right of kings and to his belief that he can write an opera.

Forced to face the fact of the great benefit which comes to the American farmer by reason of Republican tariff legislation, the Democratic United States senators who recently submitted their minority report on the question of wages and prices, seek to deceive that prosperous element in our population into the belief that it is Free Trade and not protection that this country should have.

Notwithstanding the increase in the prices of farm products, the farmer, they say, "has realized a small net return on his labor and investment."

The time has gone by, however, when shifty gentlemen can make the American farmer believe that sort of nonsense. The farmer has come into his own and Republicans are glad of it. He knows that conditions were never before better for him than right now and he will not take kindly to the suggestion which the Democrats make in this campaign that he help put them back into power. Many of them are old enough to remember the last Democratic administration which put into force free trade ideas in this country and compelled farmers to endure four years of awful adversity. Things are different now. Now he is prosperous and he knows the reason why. To quote a leading authority:

"Today there is not a farmer in the country who for a given quantity of his products can not buy and lay down at his door more of the necessities of life, more of clothing, more of everything that goes to make up the comforts of home, notwithstanding the high prices, than ever before in the history of our country."

Under these circumstances the Democratic doctrine of discontent and disaster appeals to the American farmer only as something to be spurned.

The census of 1910, it is believed, will show that the population of the United States and the dependencies which Uncle Sam acquired from Spain has reached the hundred million mark. The United States alone, it is estimated by the Director of the Census, has a population of 90,000,000. The net gain from immigration in the last ten years is about 4,292,000. With a population of 90,000,000, the United States will be at the head of all the white nations of the world with the exception of Russia. Statisticians estimate that the United States can provide for the needs of a population of 300,000,000. There are enormous areas of public lands which have not been opened to settlement. There are extensive tracts which have not been developed agriculturally. In the south are untitled lands which will produce good harvest when they are brought under systematic and scientific cultivation. That this country will ever have a population of 300,000,000 is, of course, a matter of speculation. There is little increase of population in the rural sections of New England. Vermont, indeed, shows a distinct decline, according to its census. But for the next few decades there will probably be a general increase in the population. The tide of immigration is still flowing toward this republic. The United States is still the land of opportunity. It has resources which have scarcely been touched. In the next half century there ought to be a steady growth of population in the south, through immigration as well as through natural increases. And with the policy of conservation of natural resources carried out on scientific lines, this country will be able to take care of a population which may never reach 300,000,000, but will far exceed the 100,000,000 mark which we have now reached, including our colonial possessions.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

Why were the Rush county bands turned down on the fair play?

People all over the county are asking this question. Why Rush county, having four creditable bands, is completely ignored in favor of a foreign organization, smaller than either of the four bands in the county?

The Rushville band made an effort to secure the work as did the Arlington band and at prices lower per man than the band employed; the Rushville band put in a bid of less than $3.00 a day per man and were to pay their own expenses, while the foreign band was employed at a rate of $4.00 a day per man.

When it came to the ears of the Merchants' Association they became very indignant and proceeded at once to have the matter adjusted in favor of the Rushville band which has a very warm place in the hearts of Rushville people.

Through their efforts the business manager of the band was called to the office of the secretary of the fair association on Saturday, August 27, and informed that the band was to play on Thursday, but on the following Tuesday, after the band had made all arrangements to play on Thursday, they were informed that a new contract had been made with the foreign band and that if the home band would not play on Wednesday they could not play at all. The members of the band were unable to arrange their work in order to play on this short notice.

The Rush county band feels that they have been unjustly treated in this matter, especially the members of the Rushville band, as they have worked hard to please the public and are justly entitled to the support of the people.

The other bands of the county have played in Rushville on several occasions and have rendered good programs, and should be recognized as they are perfectly capable of furnishing good music.

Why send our money away from home?

Why ask for an appropriation from the county council to maintain foreign organizations when our home organizations must want for lack of support?

We have heard a great deal in the last few months concerning mail order houses, and we are wondering

AMUSEMENTS

The Vaude will show an Imp picture tonight which is said to be one of the best dramas ever reproduced by that company, which is gaining recognition as film makers. The drama is a love story with actors of merit taking the leading roles. They all are able people who have studied the parts which they play. Dave B. Kennedy, the song and dance artist, made a good impression last night and will be on the program again tonight.

The Star Grand Airdome will offer a special attraction tonight in the moving picture, "Night Riders," explained by a lecture. The subject is said to be a very interesting one, depicting some of the terrible scenes which the night riders of Kentucky caused. The picture is a very realistic one and is said to be highly entertaining as well as instructive. The Star Grand-theater will be open as usual tonight. Earl Robertson will sing a new song at each place.

The Palace theater will have a complete change of program tonight.

URGES THAT PARENTS ACT

County Superintendent Randal Says That an Even Start in School is Almost Necessary.

AS MUCH AS IN HORSE RACE

Announces Long List of Books Which Will be Used in Grades This Year.

The township schools in Washington, Orange, Anderson and Richland townships will begin next Monday morning while the schools in the remaining eight townships will be started on September 12, the week following.

The county superintendent has asked that the principals of all of the high schools see that their pupils are supplied with high school text books, which are the same as those used last year.

There are no adopted texts in United States History, Commercial Arithmetic, and Agriculture. The following texts are in general use over the county and have given satisfaction. Channing's Student's History of United States, Moore and Miners Commercial Arithmetic, Agriculture. For Beginners—Stevens, Burkett and Hill.

The county superintendent urges that all of the parents over county start their children in school on the morning of the first day and see that they attend regularly every day after that. He suggests that an even start in school subjects is as essential as an even start in a horse race.

The following text books will be used in the grade schools all over the county:

First Year—Howe Primer.
Second Year—Howe Second Reader, New Era copy book No. 1, spelling book.

Third Year—Howe Third Reader, New Era copy book No. 2, spelling book, Primary Arithmetic.

Fourth Year—Howe Fourth Reader, New Era copy book No. 3, spelling book, Primary Arithmetic, Lessons in English Book One, Introductory Physiology and Hygiene.

Fifth Year—Howe Fourth Reader, New Era copy book No. 4, spelling book, New Grammar School Arithmetic, Lessons in English Book One, Morris' Primary History of the United States, Introductory Physiology and Hygiene.

Sixth Year—Howe Fifth Reader, New Era copy book No. 4, spelling book, Grammar School Arithmetic, Lessons in English Book One, Frye's Advanced Geography, Elementary Physiology and Hygiene, Morris' Primary History.

Seventh Year—Howe Fifth Reader, New Era copy book No. 5, spelling book, Grammar School Arithmetic, Lessons in English Book One, Frye's Advanced Geography, Elementary Physiology and Hygiene, Montgomery's United States History.

Eighth Year—Elson's Grammar School Reader, New Era copy book No. 5, spelling book, Lessons in English Book Two, Grammar School Arithmetic, Montgomery's United States History.

Concern school books may be purchased from the following dealers:

GOOSE

That a wooden shoed, simple minded goose girl should plunge monarchs and monarchies into a most mysterious confusion of affairs is a novelty. Yet the lovely Gretchen, the heroine of this fascinating old world novel, did just that, for no one can deny that Ehrenstein is a land of romance. There Carmichael, the dashing young American consul, learned of the dangers of falling in love with a princess; there Herbeck, the wily chancellor, tried a master stroke, evilly designed, to change the history of a throne; there royalty in disguise wandered and plotted and learned to know fellow human beings; there the treacherous Magyar gypsies lurked in the shadows to abduct a princess. And through all the little goose girl trod her lowly way toward a fate that the magic wand of chance had destined she must fill—a fate as amazing as it is fascinating to read about.

CHAPTER I. SOME IN RAGS.

AN old man clothed in picturesque patches and tatters paused and leaned on his stout oak staff. He had walked many miles that day. His peasant garb rather enhanced his fine head. His eyes were blue and clear and farseeing, the eyes of a hunter or a woodsman. The afternoon glow of the September sun burned along the dusty white highway. From where he stood the road trailed off miles behind and wound up 500 feet or more above him to the ancient city of Dreilberg.

Across a lofty jumble of barren rock and glacial cleft, now purpling and darkening as the sun mellowed in its decline, lay the kingdom of Jugendheit. By and by his gaze wavered, and one particular patch in the valley, brown from the beating of many ironshod horses, caught and chained his interest for a space. It was the military field, and it glittered and scintillated with squadron after squadron of cavalry.

"The philosophy of war is to prepare for it," mused the old man, with a jerk of his shoulders. "France! So the mutter runs. There is a Napoleon in France, but no Bonaparte." He laughed ironically and cautiously glanced at his watch, an article which must have cost him many and many a potato patch. He stepped forward. He had followed yonder goose girl ever since the incline began. Off the little wooden shoes had lagged, but here they were, still a hundred yards or more ahead of him.

The little goose girl was indeed tired, and the little wooden shoes grew heavier and heavier, and the little bare feet ached dully, but her heart was light and her mind sweet with happiness. Day after day she had tended the geese in the valley and trudged back at evening alone, all told a matter of twelve miles, and now she was bringing them into the city to sell in the market on the morrow. After that she would have little to do save an hour or two at night in a tavern called the Black Eagle, where she waited on patrons.

Presently there was a clatter of horses, a jingle of bit and spur and saber. Half a dozen mounted officers trotted past. The peasant on the parapet instantly recognized one of the men. He saluted with a humbleness which lacked sincerity. It was the grand duke himself. There was General Ducwitz, too, and some of his staff, and a smooth faced, handsome young man in civilian riding clothes, who, though he rode like a cavalier, was obviously of foreign birth, an Englishman or an American.

When the cavalcade reached the goose girl the peace of the scene vanished forthwith. Confusion took up the scepter. The silly geese, instead of remaining on the left of the road in safety, straightway determined that their haven of refuge was on the opposite side. Gouk, gouk! Quack, quack! They scrambled, they blundered, they flew. Some tried to go over the horses, some endeavored to go under.

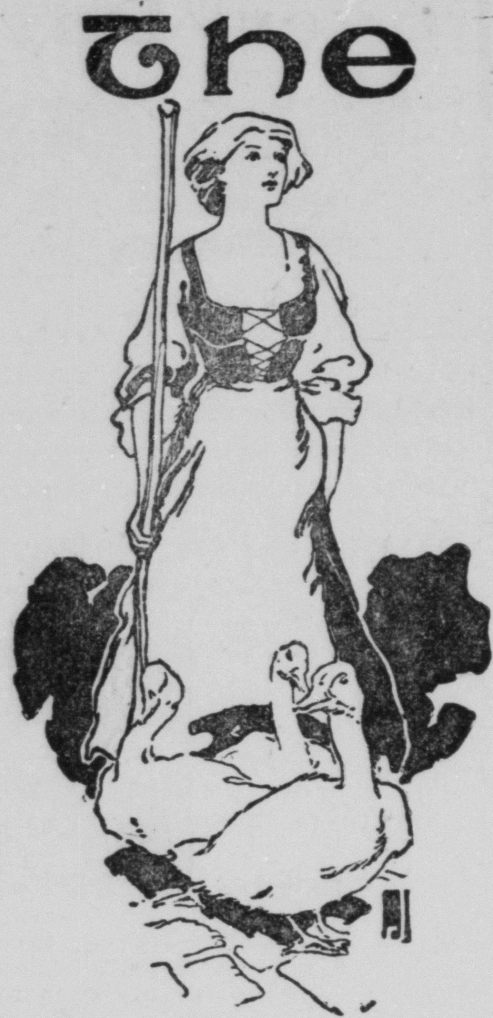

The civilian looked casually at the girl. "By George!" he exclaimed in English.

"What is it?" asked the duke, gathering up the reins. "The girl's face. It is beautiful." The duke, after a glance, readily agreed. "You Americans are always observant."

"Pretty figure, too," said one of the aids, a colonel. But his eye held none of the abstract admiration which characterized the American's.

The goose girl had seen this look in other men's eyes. She knew. A faint color grew under her tan and waned.

The troop proceeded with dust and small thunder and shortly passed the city gates. It traversed the lumpy cobbles of the narrow streets, often crowding pedestrians. One among those so inconvenienced was a youth dressed as a vintner. He was tall, pliantly built, blond as a viking, possessing a singular beauty of the masculine order. He was forced to flatten himself against the wall of a house, his arms extended on either side in a kind of temporary crucifixion. Even then the stirrup of the American touched him slightly. But it was not the touch of the stirrup that startled him. It was the dark, clean cut face of the rider. Once they were by the youth darted into a doorway.

"He? What can he be doing here? No, it is utterly impossible. It is merely a likeness."

He ventured forth presently, none of the perturbation, however, gone from his face. He ran his hand across his chin. Yes, he would let his beard grow.

The duke and his escort turned into the broad and restful sweep of the Konigsstrasse. At the end was the Ehrenstein Platz, the great square round which ran the palaces and the royal and public gardens. The halt was made in the courtyard and all dismounted.

The American thanked the duke gratefully for the use of the horse. "You are welcome to a mount at all times, Mr. Carmichael," replied the duke pleasantly. "A man who rides as well as yourself may be trusted anywhere with any kind of a horse."

The group looked admiringly at the object of this marked attention. Here was one who had seen two years of constant and terrible warfare, who had ridden horses under fire and who bore on his body many honorable scars, for the great civil strife in America had come to its close but two years before and Europe was still captive to her amazement at the military prowess of the erstwhile inconsiderable American.

As Carmichael saluted and turned to leave the courtyard he threw a swift, searching glance at one of the palace windows. Did the curtain stir? He could not say. He continued on, crossing the Platz, toward the Grand hotel. He was a bachelor, so he might easily have had his quarters at the consulate, but as usual with American consulates—even to the present time—it was situated in an undesirable part of the town, over a bierhalle frequented by farmers and the middle class.

Where had he seen that young vintner before?

Meanwhile the goose girl, now joined by the old man, marshaled her geese and proceeded.

"What was that song you were singing before the horses came up?" he asked her.

"That? It was from the poet Heine—simply."

He stared at her.

"Heine? Can you read?"

"Yes, herr."

A goose girl who read Heine?

"And the music?" he inquired presently.

"That is mine"—with the first sign of diffidence. "Melodies are always running through my head. Sometimes they make me forget things I ought to remember."

"Your own music? An impresario will be discovering you some fine day, and your fortune will be made."

The light irony did not escape her. "I am only a goose girl."

He felt disarmed. "What is your name?"

"Gretchen."

"What else?"

"Nothing else," wistfully. "I never knew any father or mother."

"So? But you taught you to read?"

"A priest. Once I lived in the mountains at an inn. He used to come in evenings when the snow was not too deep. He taught me to read and write. I know that Italy has all the works of art, that France has the most interesting history, that Germany has all the philosophers and America all the money," adding a smile. "I should like to see America."

"Do you live alone?"

"No. I live with my foster mother, who is very old. I call her grandmother. She took me in when I was a foundling. And what might your name be?"

"Ludwig. I am a mountaineer from Jugendheit."

"We are not friendly with your country."

"More's the pity. It is a grave blunder on the part of the grand duke."

"Wasn't it all about the grand duke's daughter?"

"Yes. But she has been found. Yet the duke is as bitter as of old. What is this new found princess like?"

"She is beautiful and kind."

The geese were behaving, and only occasionally was she obliged to use her stick.

He observed her critically, for he was interested. She was not tall, but her lithe slenderness gave her the appearance of tallness. Her hands, rough nailed and sunburnt, were small and shapely. Her hair, in a thick braid, was the tone of the heart of a chestnut burr, and her eyes were of that mystifying hazel, sometimes brown, sometimes gray.

"How old are you, Gretchen?"

"I do not know," she answered, "perhaps eighteen, perhaps twenty."

Arriving at length in the city, they passed through the crooked streets.

"Gretchen, where shall I find the Adlersgasse?"

"I will show you. You are also a stranger in Dreilberg?"

"Yes."

They took the next turn, and the weather beaten sign zum Schwartz Adler, hanging in front of a frame house of many gables, caused the mountaineer to breathe gratefully.

"Here my journey ends, Gretchen, at the Black Eagle," he said.

They were passing a clock mender's shop. The man from Jugendheit peered in the window, but there was no clock in sight to give him warning of the time, and he dared not now look at his watch. He had a glimpse of the ancient clock mender himself, however, huddled over a table upon which sputtered a candle. The eyes of the two men met, but only for a moment. The mountaineer started to cross the street to the tavern.

"Good night, Gretchen. Good luck to you and your geese tomorrow."

"Thanks, Herr Ludwig. And will you be long in the city?"

"That depends; perhaps," adding a grim smile in answer to a grim thought.

He offered his hand, which she accepted trustfully. He was a strange old man, but she liked him. When she withdrew her hand something cold and hard remained in her palm. Wonders of all the world, it was a piece of gold! Her eyes went up quickly, but the giver smiled reassuringly and put a finger against his lips.

"But, herr," she remonstrated.

"Keep it. I give it to you. Do not question Providence, and I am her handmaiden just now. Go along with you."

So Gretchen in a mild state of stupefaction turned away. Clat-clat! sang the little wooden shoes. A plaintive gook rose as she prodded a laggard from the dank gutter. A piece of gold! Clat-clat! Clat-clat! Surely this had been a day of marvels.

She was regarded with kindly eyes till the dark jaws of the Krumerweg swallowed up both her and her geese.

"Poor little goose girl!" he thought. "If she but knew she could make a bonfire of a thousand hearts. A fine day!" He eyed again the battered sign. It was then that he discerned another leaning from the ledge of the first story of the house adjoining the tavern. It was the tarnished shield of the United States.

"Two weeks tramping about the country in this unholy garb, following false trails half the time, living on crusts and cold meats! Ah, you have led me a merry dance, nephew, but I shall not forget!"

He entered the tavern and applied for a room, haggling over the price.

The nights were chilly. Carmichael in order to finish his cigar on the little balcony fronting his window found it necessary to put on his light overcoat, though he perfectly knew that he was in no manner forced to smoke on the balcony. But the truth was he wanted a clear vision of the palace and the lighted windows thereof and of one in particular. He had no more sense than Tom Fool, the abettor of follies. She was as far removed from him as the most alien of the planets, but the magnet shall ever draw the needle, and a woman shall ever draw a man. He knew that it was impossible, that it grew more impossible day by day, and he rallied at himself bitterly and satirically.

He sighed and teetered his legs. Carmichael sighed for the Princess Hildegarde, understanding. It was sigh or curse, and the latter mode of expression wastes more vitality.

Arthur Carmichael was Irish. He was born in America, educated there and elsewhere—a little while in Paris, a little while at Bonn—and, like all Irishmen, he was banded with the wandering foot, for the man who is homeless by choice has a subtle poison in his blood. He was at Bonn when the civil war came. He went back to America and threw himself into the fight with all the ardor that had made his forbears famous in the service of the worthless Stuarts. It wasn't a question with him of the mere love of fighting, of tossing the penny. He knew with which side he wished to fight. He joined the cavalry of the north and hammered and fought his way to a captaincy. He was wounded five times and imprisoned twice. At the end of the conflict he returned to Washington.

Without any influence whatever save his pleasing address and his wide education he blarneyed the state department out of a consulate. They sent him to Ehrenstein at a salary not worth mentioning, with the diplomatic halo of dignity as a tail to the kite. Two years in any one place was not reckoning as regarded Carmichael, yet here he was, carping neither for promotion nor exchange. So, then, all logical deductions simmered down to one—cherchez la femme.

The dreamer is invariably tripping over his illusions, and Carmichael was rather boyish in his dreams. What absurd romances he was always weaving round her! What exploits on her behalf! But never anything happened, and never was the grand duke called upon to offer his benediction.

It was all very foolish and romantic and impossible, and no one recognized this more readily than he. No American ever married a princess of a reigning house, and no American ever will. This law is as immovable as the law of gravitation. Still, man is master of his dreams, and he may do as he pleases in the confines of this small circle.

"How the deuce will it end?" musing half aloud. "I'll forget myself some day and trip so hard that they'll be asking Washington for my recall. I'll go over to the gardens and listen to the band."

He was standing in front of the hotel when he noticed a closed carriage hard by the fountain in the Platz.

"Ha, a fare!"

A woman in black, thoroughly veiled and cloaked, came round from the opposite side of the fountain. She spoke to the driver. The lady stepped into the carriage, the driver wove up his ancient Bucephalus and went clickety-clack down the Konigsstrasse toward the town. To Carmichael it was less than an incident. He twirled his cane and walked toward the public gardens. The band struck up again, and he drifted with the crowd toward the pavilion.

Within a dozen feet of him, her arms folded across her breast, her eyes half shut in the luxury of the senses, stood the goose girl. He smiled as he recalled the encounter of that afternoon. It was his habit to ride to the maneuvers every day, and several times he had noticed her and her beauty.

"Why couldn't I have fallen in love with some one like this?" he cogitated.

Colonel von Wallenstein of the general staff approached her from the other side. Wallenstein was a capital soldier and a jolly fellow round a board, but beyond that Carmichael had no real liking for him. There were too many scented notes stuck in his pockets.

The colonel dropped his cigarette, leaned over Gretchen's shoulder and spoke a few words. At first she gave no heed. The colonel persisted. Without a word in reply she resolutely sought the nearest policeman. Wallenstein, remaining where he was, laughed. Meantime the policeman frowned. His excellency could not possibly have intended any wrong. The law of redress in Ehrenstein had no niche for the goose girl.

"Good evening, colonel," said Carmichael pleasantly. "Why can't your bandmaster give us light opera once in a while?"

The colonel pulled his mustache in chagrin.

"Light operas are rare at present," he replied, accepting his defeat amiably enough.

And then a pretty woman rose from a chair near by. She nodded brightly at the colonel, who bowed, excused himself to Carmichael and made off after her.

Carmichael looked round for Gretchen. She was still at the side of the policeman. She came back.

"Did you get your geese together without mishap?" he asked of her.

The instinct of the child always remains with the woman. Gretchen smiled. This young man would be different, she knew.

"They were only frightened."

"We don't have goose girls in America," he said.

The magic word America, where the gold came from, flamed her curiosity.

"You are from America?" she asked.

"Yes."

"Are you rich?"

"In fancy, in dreams," humorously.

"Oh, I thought they were all rich. Did you fight in the war?"

"Yes. Do you like music?"

"Were you ever wounded?"

"A scratch or two. But do you like music?"

"Very, very much. When they play Beethoven, Bach or Meyerbeer—ah, I seem to live in another country. I hear music in everything—in the leaves, the rain, the wind, the stream."

It seemed strange to him that he had not noticed it at first, the almost Hanoverian purity of her speech and the freedom with which she spoke. The average peasant is ignorant, diffident, with a vocabulary of few words.

"What is your name?"

"Gretchen."

"It is a good name. It is famous too."

"Goethe used it."

"So he did." Carmichael ably concealed his surprise.

He was willing to swear that she was making fun of him. Was she a simple goose girl? Was she not something more, something deeper? War clouds were forming in the skies. They might gather and strike at any time. And who but the French could produce such a woman spy? Ehrenstein was not Prussia, it was true, but the duchy, with its 20,000 troops, was one of the many pulses that beat in unison with this man Bismarck's plans. He was certainly puzzled, but a glance at her hands dissolved his doubts. These hands were used to toil. They were in no way disguised.

"You have been to school?"

"After a manner. My teacher was a kind priest. But he never knew that, with knowledge, he was to open the gates of discontent."

"Then you are not happy with your lot?"

"Is any one, herr?" quietly. "And who might you be and what might you be doing here in Dreilberg, riding with the grand duke?"

"I am the American consul."

Gretchen took a step back.

"What did Colonel Wallenstein say to you?" he asked.

"Nothing of importance. I am used to it. I am perfectly able to take care of myself," she answered.

"What did the policeman say?"

"What would he say to a goose girl?"

"Shall I speak to him?"

"Would it really do any good?" skeptically.

"It might. The duke is friendly toward me, and I am certain he would not tolerate such conduct in his police. My name is Carmichael. Now, listen, Gretchen—if at any time you are in trouble you will find me at the Grand hotel or at the consulate next door to the Black Eagle."

"I shall remember. Sometimes I work in the Black Eagle."

"Good night," he said.

Gretchen extended her hand, and Carmichael took it in his own, inspecting it.

"It is a good hand. It is strong too," he said.

"It has to be strong, herr. Good night."

Carmichael raised his hat again, and Gretchen breathed contentedly as she saw him disappear in the crowd. Suddenly she felt an arm slip through hers. Her head went round.

"Leo?" she whispered.

It was the young vintner whom Carmichael had pushed against the wall that day.

"Who was that?" he asked.

"Herr Carmichael, the American consul."

"Carmichael?" he gasped.

"What is it, Leo?"

"Nothing, only I grow mad with rage when any of these gentlemen

"TT MIGHT. THE DUKE IS FRIENDLY TOWARD ME."

speak to you. Gentlemen! I know them all to well. Ah, how I love you!" Gretchen thrilled.

"To me the world began but two weeks ago. I have just begun to live," he whispered warmly.

"I am sad and lonely tonight," she said gloomily.

"Why, indeed?"

"Leo, as much as I love you, there is always a shadow."

"What shadow?"

"It is always at night that I see you, rarely in the bright daytime. What do you do during the day? It is not yet vintage. What do you do?"

"Will you trust me a little longer, Gretchen, just a little longer?"

To be Continued.

NO MORE GRAY HAIR

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

TIME TO ACT

Dont Wait for the Fatal Stages of Kidney Illness. Profit by Rushville People's Experience.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular micturition, headaches and dizzy spells are common early symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time but return with greater intensity. If there are symptoms of dropsy—puffy swellings below the eyes, bloating of limbs and ankles, or any part of the body, don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up the treatment until the kidneys are well, when your old time health and vigor will return. Cures in Rushville prove the effectiveness of this great kidney remedy.

Mrs. Jacob Roth, West First St., R. F. D. No. 4, Rushville, Ind., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been a standard remedy in my family for the past two years and I am firmly convinced that there is no other medicine on the market equal to it. We have taken Doan's Kidney Pills time and time again and they have never failed to give relief from kidney and bladder trouble. I have such great faith in the curative powers of this preparation that I never fail to speak a good word for it when I hear anyone complaining of kidney trouble." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM
Lumbago, Sciatica, Gout, Neuralgia, Catarrh, Asthma and Hay Fever.

A reliable preparation for both internal and external use that gives quick relief to the sufferer. Applied externally it stops all aches and pains. Taken internally it dissolves the poisonous substance and assists nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by Druggists.

One Dollar per bottle, or sent prepaid upon receipt of price if not obtainable in your locality.

J. C. BENSON, Sardin, Tenn., writes: "Your 'S-DROPS' has cured my wife of Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and I want to say that it is worth one hundred dollars a bottle instead of only one dollar."

FOR CATARRH AND ASTHMA, "S-Drops" taken internally and inhaled affords a thorough treatment that gives prompt relief.

THE INSURGENTS AND ROOSEVELT

Their Resolutions Drew a Smile From the Colonel.

A RIGHT PERSONAL MENTION

When William Allen White's Resolution Referring to the Willingness of Kansas Insurgents to Again Enlist Under the Roosevelt Banner, Was Shown to the Colonel, the Latter Smiled.—Big Doings at Osawatimie.

Osawatimie, Kan., Aug. 31.—Mr. Roosevelt is today inside the state of Kansas, where the insurgents are rampant. The insurgents published their resolutions yesterday, written by William Allen White. Here is a paragraph that drew a smile from the colonel:

"We send our greetings to Theodore Roosevelt, the new world's champion of the rights of men in the world-old contest between rising humanity and the encroachments of special privilege. And as Republicans we stand ready to enlist under his banner in the fight for human rights."

This was taken by some to mean that Kansas would like to see the colonel running again in 1912. Maybe they will see him.

Mr. Roosevelt started the day by meeting Governor Stubbs, Congressmen Murdock and Madison and Senator Bristow, who joined in greeting the colonel. The governor joined the special train in a private car early this morning and followed on to Osawatimie.

John Brown was not the main topic of the colonel's speech today, although the object of the address was to dedicate as a state park the battleground on the outskirts of the town, where, in 1856, John Brown stood off a band of pro-slavery guerrillas.

He discussed issues of the moment and delivered to the public a good many of his policies which he thinks ought to be carried out. It was the most important utterance of the trip. When he gets through here he will dine with the insurgents at Governor Stubbs's home in Lawrence. And then he will hike for Kansas City and renew old acquaintances.

As he passed through southern Colorado into Kansas, the colonel found little groups of country folk gathered at the railroad stations. At Pueblo and Colorado Springs there were real big doings, but it was sort of a passing show and did not excite the populace much, because the colonel did not cut loose and smash as he does when he is hot up. Still, there was enthusiasm.

The interest of Mr. Roosevelt toward every part of this country was illustrated when he touched upon the fine work done by the forestry bureau in connection with the forest fires. Gifford Pinchot, who is credited by progressives with the present organization of the service, stood close by and heard the colonel applauded. James Rudolph Garfield was not far away. Roosevelt is with Pinchot and Garfield unto the bitter end. He will help them fight their battles. That is a trifle significant.

The stops at Ordway, Sugar City and Eads, Colorado, were brief and uneventful. The colonel beamed and shook hands and said kind things. Several crates of melons were given to him.

TOWN DESTROYED

Tornado Kills Two and Practically Wipes Out North Dakota Village.

Heaton, N. D., Aug. 31.—A tornado killed two and seriously injured six persons last night and totally destroyed two bank buildings, two elevators, two stores, a church and five dwellings. The dead: H. O. Thorbenson and Ethel Alsson.

The damage to property will exceed $100,000. Reports are coming from the country of heavy damage to farm property, but so far as known no one was seriously injured outside the village. Besides the totally wrecked property in the village, practically every building that remains is damaged.

QUELLED THEM

Gary's Mayor Able to Pacify Redskins in Their Own Tongue.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 31.—Mayor Thomas E. Knotts's early training as a school superintendent on a western Indian reservation came in handy when he quelled a band of thirty Chippewa Indians attached to a show who had imbibed too much Gary firewater and who started to terrorize and shoot up the south end of the city.

Two thousand people who had assembled to witness the performance were surprised to see the yelling Redskins start a war dance. Yells and pistol shots rent the air, and as the participants grew more boisterous several women and children screamed and fled in terror.

A hurry-up call was sent to the police station and Chief Joseph Martin, assisted by a squad of police, took the whisky and revolvers away from the Indians. They continued their shouting, and it was not until Mayor Knotts arrived on the scene and talked to the men in their own language that they quieted for the sake of the "big white chief," they said.

PREFERRED DEATH TO UNEQUAL FIGHT

Well Bred Girl in New York Gave Up.

New York, Aug. 31.—The girl who tried to kill herself in the Hotel Astor late on Monday night went to the operating table in Flower hospital last evening resolutely concealing her identity. "I want to die," she said. "I won't tell you who I am or where I came from. My people shall never know." The doctors say she has not an even chance to get well.

Despite her efforts at concealment the young woman was later identified as Vera Fitch of Oakland, Cal. Her mother, widow of the late General Henry Fitch, U. S. A., visited her at the hospital and set all doubts at rest.

Flower hospital does not have often so interesting a patient as the young, good-looking, evidently well-bred girl who had resisted every effort to penetrate her identity. Her appearance is prepossessing. Her hair is light brown and her complexion is rather dark. Her eyes are blue and her features are very regular. The face is pretty, with a pleasing expression. She is of medium height, about five feet five inches, and weighs perhaps 150 pounds. Her hands and nails show evidences of constant care, and the quality of her clothing is excellent.

She wore when taken to the hospital from the Hotel Astor, an evening dress of light blue silk, over which was thrown a white silk opera cape. Her stockings were black silk and her slippers were black suede. The dress bore the mark "Heatherington, London."

Three letters which were found pinned in the bosom of her dress indicated that she had been in New York two years and that she had grown tired of struggling to make a living as a writer. In these letters she complained of "the insincerity and sordidness and disillusionment of life" and that "it is really deplorable that a girl cannot get along honorably in New York." She wrote that she might have succeeded had she "conceded to the wishes of men—cultured, yes, usually moneyed, yes, but never moral." Death, she concluded, was preferable to such things.

Suicide of Unknown Woman.

Boston, Aug. 31.—A handsome, well-dressed, unknown woman was found dead in a room on the third floor of Young's hotel with a bullet wound just over the heart. There is not the slightest clue to the woman's identity or where she lived. She had written on a scrap of paper the words "Ill health."

HER NOTION OF REVENGE

Jealous Girl Throws Carbolic Acid and Burns Ten Men.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 31.—Ten men were burned by carbolic acid when Miss Barbara Walton of Plymouth, near here, made an effort to destroy the features of Thomas Price, a hand some young mine worker, of whom she was jealous because he had transferred his affections to another girl. Price was on the cage at the Dodson mine, about to be lowered to his work, and nine other men were with him when Miss Walton, who had been hiding behind some timber, started forward with a large bottle of carbolic acid in her hand. She threw the contents at Price and he and the other men crowded in the center of the cage and kept in by the closed gates, could not escape. Price threw up his arm and partly shielded his face, but the acid burned his forehead and his lips and neck, as well as his arm. John Urganis, who was behind him, was struck in the eyes and his sight was probably destroyed. John Walker, Michael Yakonis and Frank Smith were also severely burned on the head and hands and the five others escaped with slight burns. The girl got away but was later captured and held for a hearing.

Dangerous Resting Place.

Sullivan, Ind., Aug. 31.—James W. Slider, aged forty, while sitting on the Indianapolis Southern track, was struck by a freight train and killed.

THE MANEUVERS ABOUT TO BEGIN

Fort Benjamin Harrison the Scene of Great Activity.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND SOLDIERS

Fall Maneuvers to Continue Through September Will Attract to the Manuever Reservation Near Indianapolis a Great Body of Soldiers Including Militia From Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan and Kentucky.

Indianapolis, Aug. 31.—A tented city is now being established in the manuever reservation at Fort Benjamin Harrison. The reservation lies immediately north of the post and will be the base of the September camp of instruction for the department of the lakes, commanded by Brigadier General Charles L. Hodges. Before the month of September has passed the manuever camp will have sheltered not less than 15,000 soldiers, including regulars and state militia, the latter representing the states of Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan and Kentucky.

The regulars who are to participate in the manuevers are practically all in the camp now and will be ready to go to work as soon as the Indiana national guard, under command of Brigadier General Will J. McKee, arrives tomorrow for a stay of ten days.

The Indiana national guard, consisting of three regiments of infantry, a signal and a hospital corps, will begin leaving home stations tonight, and most of the companies will be in camp by noon tomorrow. The Hoosier outfit will be encamped along the road running east from the post, General McKee's headquarters being on a ridge to the north of the road, the regiments occupying a large field south of the road. The general field hospital will be west of the Indianians.

According to present plans the battle exercises will not be so large as in previous years, owing to lack of room. There will be only one large problem during the stay of each national guard organization, the rest of the time being devoted to small exercises in attack and defense, rear and advance guard work and in field communication, the latter being done through the signal corps. The rapid transmission of information in the field is one of the problems of army action, and it is for the purpose of educating the men in this that a large number of exercises in connection with the signal corps will be held. Another feature that is to be new in this camp is the building of pontoon bridges under the direction of the engineers. It was hoped that Fall creek would be high enough to float the pontoons, but Captain Caples of the engineers now believes he will have to make all his pontoons on the land.

MADE DEATH CERTAIN

Woman Drank Poison, Then Touched Match to Oil-Soaked Shroud.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 31.—The coroner has obtained evidence that leaves no doubt that Mrs. Belle McCammon, whose charred body was found in the barn at her home after the structure was damaged by fire, committed suicide after making careful preparations to take her life. She wrapped herself in an oil-soaked piece of carpet and took poison as she lay down in the hay-loft of the barn and later set herself on fire.

Wanted a Bank Account.

Richmond, Ind., Aug. 31.—Arthur Newhouse robbed the trunk of his roommate of $13 and deposited the loot in a local bank. He told Mayor Zimmerman that his desire to start a bank account prompted the theft. Mayor Zimmerman fined Newhouse $100 and sentenced him to one year in jail.

Fatal Accident at Crossing.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 31.—An automobile accident, which resulted in the death of one person and the injury of two others, occurred near Gary, when a Pennsylvania train crashed into the touring car belonging to F. J. Woodke of Toledo, O., killing his wife and injuring himself and brother.

Lost Control of Machine.

Indianapolis, Aug. 31.—Losing control of his motorcycle, going at high speed in North Delaware street, Dr. G. R. Hays, assistant police surgeon, dashed into an automobile driven by H. L. Archey, was hurled twenty feet and broke a leg.

Stepped in Front of Train.

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 31.—Ralph Anson, aged twenty-two, of Paxton, Ill., a switchman on the L. E. & W. railroad here, was instantly killed in the yards. He was riding on a Big Four engine and stepped off in front of a Lake Erie local.

Brought Back to Face Murder Charge.

Sullivan, Ind., Aug. 31.—Charles Burton, who shot and killed August Staples at the Jacksonville mine in a quarrel over 25 cents, while engaged in a craps game, was arrested at Henderson, Ky., and brought here.

Several cases of illness with choleraic symptoms have been reported at Berlin.

Preliminary Institute Will Be Held, When Regular Program Will Be Carried Out.

GOOD ATTENDANCE DESIRED.

County Superintendent Gives List of Questions and Asks That They Be Answered.

The preliminary institute will be held in the court house Saturday, and all teachers are earnestly requested to attend. The County Superintendent, Orlando Randall, urges that each teacher be prepared to answer the following questions at the institute Saturday: by way of supplementing the text; how to study; prepare an illustration taken from your own school room, an experience of a poor method of study, and give method of studying a lesson in some particular subject. They are also asked to tell from their own experience how they created within the children a proper motive for study.

After reading "How to Study," page 61 to 84, each teacher is requested to write a list of five questions on the poem, "The Blind Man and the Elephant," Howe. Fourth Reader, page 16, indicating the nature of the supplementing that would be needed in studying the poem with children. High school teachers will select poems from the high school course rather than from the Fourth Reader.

The following program will be rendered at the institute Saturday:

MOTHER MADE FIRST BADGES

William Stewart's Father Was Member of Board of Directors of First Rush County Fair.

HE IS ATTENDING THIS YEAR

Other Parent Made First Badges Ever Worn by Directors in This Section of State.

William M. Stewart living north of town was here Tuesday making ready to take his family to Rushville Wednesday to attend the fifty-fourth annual Rush county fair for a couple of days, says the Greensburg News.

Mr. Stewart grew reminiscent while in conversation with a News man, and in the course of a discussion offered the information that his father was a member of the first board of directors that ever put on a county fair in the sister county. The elder Mr. Stewart, now deceased, fifty-five years ago showed the first Short Horn bull that had ever been exhibited in these parts. He was an enthusiast about fairs and in those days worked hard for the success that has attended the efforts of Rush county citizens today. The foundation laid by the first twelve directors was of good masonry and it stood. The policy they outlined has been adhered to and followed by successors in the after years.

To Mrs. Stewart belongs the distinction of having innovated the first badges worn by directors in this section of Indiana. Her husband, however, first suggested it one night when he returned from the fair at 10 o'clock, and though the hour was late Mrs. Stewart applied her needle, thread and scissors until she had fashioned twelve neat, pretty and ornamental badges, which her husband the next day pinned on those associated with him at the head of the Rush county enterprise.

TOMORROW TO BE THE BIG DAY

creamery all the big shippers in this county ship their cream.

The K. of P. lodge is conducting a stand under the grandstand, and are selling lemonade, peanuts, popcorn, ice cream, cones, all the home made cigars and sandwiches. They also have the grandstand privilege.

Kitchen & Monjar are running a refreshment dispensary at the southeast corner of the amphitheater.

Mrs. Minnie Abererombie has a large display of fancy work at the fair this year.

Harold McClanahan and Ward Hackleman, two local boys, are checking parcels at the check room at the west end of the grandstand.

Mrs. F. E. Wolcott has a gigantic display of hand painted china in the floral hall.

Mrs. Alonzo Shick, who is well known here, and who is one of the best artists in the State, has made several entries of her work at the fair here this week.

Dora Matlock is conducting a crackerjack stand just back of the secretary's office.

The I. & C. have employed several assistants so as to make their service as efficient tomorrow as it possibly can be made.

Stoops and Mann are conducting an ice cream stand at the fair.

Are You an Insurgent?

Have you begun to rebel against shoes which continually pinch and irritate your feet because they do not fit properly?

Then Try a Pair of Our Shoes

We will fit you with shoes made over foot molded lasts—Snug, but not tight—do not pinch or bind, and hold their shape until worn out. Try them.
